Top Tips

Frequently, there will be one part of a word that trips up your child each time. Look at the word together and highlight the part that they find particularly tricky. For example:

Night Separate Was Receive Weird

What Two Friend Said Cheap

Or there may be two parts that need attention, for instance;

Accommodate Address Necessary

Once you've done the highlighting together, get them to write out the word again without looking. This time they'll be more focused on getting that tricky bit right, and will be able to remember how it looks.

If one or two parts of a particular word just don't seem to 'sink in' by simply highlighting them, try to think of other ways to help them stick. For example:

- With weird, people often get the i and e confused. Help by saying we are weird, so your child remembers that we is the first part of the word.
- For the double s in dessert: desserts are both sweet and sugary.
- For a word with two 'tricky' parts, like necessary, think Cats Eat Salty Sardines to remember the c and the double s (see 'Make it an acronym' below).

Try breaking down polysyllabic words to make each syllable easier to remember. Even young children may be doing this at school – they might call syllables 'beats'. Help them decipher how many 'beats' or syllables there are in a word by clapping the word together, one clap per syllable.

So, for two-syllable words...

Danger Dan / ger Windmill Wind / mill Option Op / tion

And for three-syllable words...

Relation Re / la / tion Beautiful Beau / ti / ful

Syllable 1	Syllable 2	Syllable 3
Re	la	tion

Another classic technique is known as Look, Cover, Write and Check.

So, they look at the word...

Cover the word...

Write the word...

And finally check it.

It's a well-researched memory trick: if you can conjure up a visual image, what you're trying to remember (in this case spellings!) may come more readily.

For example, 'rainbow sounds' can help a child visualise a word with each sound being the next colour in the rainbow sequence – ROYGBIV

e.g. cat shop cheaper pale

Another trick is to visualise the word as part of an image/picture. If your child is learning 'bank' but writing 'banc', help them remember it's a 'kicking K' by saying, "I kicked my legs into the bank". If they're writing 'cat' as 'kat' remind them it's a 'curly c' by saying, "The cat likes to curl up and go to sleep". Encourage your child to invent their own ways of remembering words; if they have thought up the image themselves, it will be a more powerful tool.

To remember double s, really stress and extend the sound: fussssssss.

To remember double z, again stress and extend it: buzzzzzzzzz.

Same for double e: seeeeeeeeem.

To remember ea instead of ee, pronounce it as two separate sounds: cre – a –m.

Sometimes, visualising a difficult word in a different way can suddenly make it stick. Create a phrase from each letter of a word and turn it into an acrostic, which can be easier to remember than the word itself. Try these, or have your child make up their own!

If they're writing 'cat' as 'kat' remind them it's a 'curly c' by saying, "The cat likes to curl up and go to sleep". Encourage your child to invent their own ways of remembering words; if they have thought up the image themselves, it will be a more powerful tool.

To remember double s, really stress and extend the sound: fusssssss.

To remember double z, again stress and extend it: buzzzzzzzzz.

Same for double e: seeeeeeeeem.

To remember ea instead of ee, pronounce it as two separate sounds: cre – a –m.

Sometimes, visualising a difficult word in a different way can suddenly make it stick. Create a phrase from each letter of a word and turn it into an acrostic, which can be easier to remember than the word itself. Try these, or have your child make up their own!

Top Tips

Frequently, there will be one part of a word that trips up your child each time. Look at the word together and highlight the part that they find particularly tricky. For example:

Night Separate Was Receive Weird

What Two Friend Said Cheap

Or there may be two parts that need attention, for instance;

Accommodate Address Necessary

Once you've done the highlighting together, get them to write out the word again without looking. This time they'll be more focused on getting that tricky bit right, and will be able to remember how it looks.

If one or two parts of a particular word just don't seem to 'sink in' by simply highlighting them, try to think of other ways to help them stick. For example:

- With weird, people often get the i and e confused. Help by saying we are weird, so your child remembers that we is the first part of the word.
- For the double s in dessert: desserts are both sweet and sugary.
- For a word with two 'tricky' parts, like necessary, think Cats Eat Salty Sardines to remember the c and the double s (see 'Make it an acronym' below).

Try breaking down polysyllabic words to make each syllable easier to remember. Even young children may be doing this at school – they might call syllables 'beats'. Help them decipher how many 'beats' or syllables there are in a word by clapping the word together, one clap per syllable.

So, for two-syllable words...

Danger Dan / ger Windmill Wind / mill Option Op / tion

And for three-syllable words...

Relation Re / la / tion Beautiful Beau / ti / ful

Syllable 1	Syllable 2	Syllable 3
Re	la	tion

Another classic technique is known as Look, Cover, Write and Check.

So, they look at the word...

Cover the word...

Write the word...

And finally check it.

It's a well-researched memory trick: if you can conjure up a visual image, what you're trying to remember (in this case spellings!) may come more readily.

For example, 'rainbow sounds' can help a child visualise a word with each sound being the next colour in the rainbow sequence – ROYGBIV

e.g. cat shop cheaper pale

Another trick is to visualise the word as part of an image/picture. If your child is learning 'bank' but writing 'banc', help them remember it's a 'kicking K' by saying, "I kicked my legs into the bank". If they're writing 'cat' as 'kat' remind them it's a 'curly c' by saying, "The cat likes to curl up and go to sleep". Encourage your child to invent their own ways of remembering words; if they have thought up the image themselves, it will be a more powerful tool.

Top Tips

Frequently, there will be one part of a word that trips up your child each time. Look at the word together and highlight the part that they find particularly tricky. For example:

Night Separate Was Receive Weird

What Two Friend Said Cheap

Or there may be two parts that need attention, for instance;

Accommodate Address Necessary

Once you've done the highlighting together, get them to write out the word again without looking. This time they'll be more focused on getting that tricky bit right, and will be able to remember how it looks.

If one or two parts of a particular word just don't seem to 'sink in' by simply highlighting them, try to think of other ways to help them stick. For example:

- With weird, people often get the i and e confused. Help by saying we are weird, so your child remembers that we is the first part of the word.
- For the double s in dessert: desserts are both sweet and sugary.
- For a word with two 'tricky' parts, like necessary, think Cats Eat Salty Sardines to remember the c and the double s (see 'Make it an acronym' below).

Try breaking down polysyllabic words to make each syllable easier to remember. Even young children may be doing this at school – they might call syllables 'beats'. Help them decipher how many 'beats' or syllables there are in a word by clapping the word together, one clap per syllable.

So, for two-syllable words...

Danger Dan / ger Windmill Wind / mill Option Op / tion

And for three-syllable words...

Relation Re / la / tion Beautiful Beau / ti / ful

Syllable 1	Syllable 2	Syllable 3
Re	la	tion

Another classic technique is known as Look, Cover, Write and Check.

So, they look at the word...

Cover the word...

Write the word...

And finally check it.

It's a well-researched memory trick: if you can conjure up a visual image, what you're trying to remember (in this case spellings!) may come more readily.

For example, 'rainbow sounds' can help a child visualise a word with each sound being the next colour in the rainbow sequence – ROYGBIV

e.g. cat shop cheaper pale

Another trick is to visualise the word as part of an image/picture. If your child is learning 'bank' but writing 'banc', help them remember it's a 'kicking K' by saying, "I kicked my legs into the bank". If they're writing 'cat' as 'kat' remind them it's a 'curly c' by saying, "The cat likes to curl up and go to sleep". Encourage your child to invent their own ways of remembering words; if they have thought up the image themselves, it will be a more powerful tool.

To remember double s, really stress and extend the sound: f^us^ss^ss^ss^ss.

To remember double z, again stress and extend it: bu^zz^zz^zz^zz^zz.

Same for double e: seeeeeeeeem.

To remember ea instead of ee, pronounce it as two separate sounds: cre – a – m.

Sometimes, visualising a difficult word in a different way can suddenly make it stick. Create a phrase from each letter of a word and turn it into an acrostic, which can be easier to remember than the word itself. Try these, or have your child make up their own!

If your child is learning 'bank' but writing 'banc', help them remember it's a 'kicking K' by saying, "I kicked my legs into the bank". If they're writing 'cat' as 'kat' remind them it's a 'curly c' by saying, "The cat likes to curl up and go to sleep". Encourage your child to invent their own ways of remembering words; if they have thought up the image themselves, it will be a more powerful tool.

To remember double s, really stress and extend the sound: fusssssss.

To remember double z, again stress and extend it: buzzzzzzzz.

Same for double e: seeeeeeeeem.

To remember ea instead of ee, pronounce it as two separate sounds: cre – a –m.

Sometimes, visualising a difficult word in a different way can suddenly make it stick. Create a phrase from each letter of a word and turn it into an acrostic, which can be easier to remember than the word itself. Try these, or have your child make up their own!

Top Tips

Frequently, there will be one part of a word that trips up your child each time. Look at the word together and highlight the part that they find particularly tricky. For example:

Night Separate Was Receive Weird
What Two Friend Said Cheap

Or there may be two parts that need attention, for instance;

Accommodate Address Necessary

Once you've done the highlighting together, get them to write out the word again without looking. This time they'll be more focused on getting that tricky bit right, and will be able to remember how it looks.

If one or two parts of a particular word just don't seem to 'sink in' by simply highlighting them, try to think of other ways to help them stick. For example:

- With weird, people often get the i and e confused. Help by saying we are weird, so your child remembers that we is the first part of the word.
- For the double s in dessert: desserts are both sweet and sugary.
- For a word with two 'tricky' parts, like necessary, think Cats Eat Salty Sardines to remember the c and the double s (see 'Make it an acronym' below).

Try breaking down polysyllabic words to make each syllable easier to remember. Even young children may be doing this at school – they might call syllables 'beats'. Help them decipher how many 'beats' or syllables there are in a word by clapping the word together, one clap per syllable.

So, for two-syllable words...

Danger Dan / ger Windmill Wind / mill Option Op / tion

And for three-syllable words...

Relation Re / la / tion Beautiful Beau / ti / ful

Syllable 1	Syllable 2	Syllable 3
Re	la	tion

Another classic technique is known as Look, Cover, Write and Check.

So, they look at the word...

Cover the word...

Write the word...

And finally check it.

It's a well-researched memory trick: if you can conjure up a visual image, what you're trying to remember (in this case spellings!) may come more readily.

For example, 'rainbow sounds' can help a child visualise a word with each sound being the next colour in the rainbow sequence – ROYGBIV

e.g. cat shop cheaper pale

Another trick is to visualise the word as part of an image/picture. If your child is learning 'bank' but writing 'banc', help them remember it's a 'kicking K' by saying, "I kicked my legs into the bank". If they're writing 'cat' as 'kat' remind them it's a 'curly c' by saying, "The cat likes to curl up and go to sleep". Encourage your child to invent their own ways of remembering words; if they have thought up the image themselves, it will be a more powerful tool.

Spelling List

Year 3

This booklet provides the Year 3 and 4 spelling lists for parents and carers.

Your child should also know the spelling list for Year 1 and 2. These have been included to help your child recall these.

Top Tips

Frequently, there will be one part of a word that trips up your child each time. Look at the word together and highlight the part that they find particularly tricky. For example:

Night Separate Was Receive Weird

What Two Friend Said Cheap

Or there may be two parts that need attention, for instance;

Accommodate Address Necessary

Once you've done the highlighting together, get them to write out the word again without looking. This time they'll be more focused on getting that tricky bit right, and will be able to remember how it looks.

If one or two parts of a particular word just don't seem to 'sink in' by simply highlighting them, try to think of other ways to help them stick. For example:

- With weird, people often get the i and e confused. Help by saying we are weird, so your child remembers that we is the first part of the word.
- For the double s in dessert: desserts are both sweet and sugary.
- For a word with two 'tricky' parts, like necessary, think Cats Eat Salty Sardines to remember the c and the double s (see 'Make it an acronym' below).

Try breaking down polysyllabic words to make each syllable easier to remember. Even young children may be doing this at school – they might call syllables 'beats'. Help them decipher how many 'beats' or syllables there are in a word by clapping the word together, one clap per syllable.

So, for two-syllable words...

Danger Dan / ger Windmill Wind / mill Option Op / tion

And for three-syllable words...

Relation Re / la / tion Beautiful Beau / ti / ful

Syllable 1	Syllable 2	Syllable 3
Re	la	tion

Another classic technique is known as Look, Cover, Write and Check.

So, they look at the word...

Cover the word...

Write the word...

And finally check it.

It's a well-researched memory trick: if you can conjure up a visual image, what you're trying to remember (in this case spellings!) may come more readily.

For example, 'rainbow sounds' can help a child visualise a word with each sound being the next colour in the rainbow sequence – ROYGBIV

e.g. cat shop cheaper pale

Another trick is to visualise the word as part of an image/picture. If your child is learning 'bank' but writing 'banc', help them remember it's a 'kicking K' by saying, "I kicked my legs into the bank". If they're writing 'cat' as 'kat' remind them it's a 'curly c' by saying, "The cat likes to curl up and go to sleep". Encourage your child to invent their own ways of remembering words; if they have thought up the image themselves, it will be a more powerful tool.

To remember double s, really stress and extend the sound: fusssssss.

To remember double z, again stress and extend it: buzzzzzzzz.

Same for double e: seeeeeeeeem.

To remember ea instead of ee, pronounce it as two separate sounds: cre – a –m.

Sometimes, visualising a difficult word in a different way can suddenly make it stick. Create a phrase from each letter of a word and turn it into an acrostic, which can be easier to remember than the word itself. Try these, or have your child make up their own!

Frequently, there will be one part of a word that trips up your child each time. Look at the word together and highlight the part that they find particularly tricky. For example:

Night Separate Was Receive Weird

What Two Friend Said Cheap

Or there may be two parts that need attention, for instance;

Accommodate Address Necessary

Once you've done the highlighting together, get them to write out the word again without looking. This time they'll be more focused on getting that tricky bit right, and will be able to remember how it looks.

If one or two parts of a particular word just don't seem to 'sink in' by simply highlighting them, try to think of other ways to help them stick. For example:

- With weird, people often get the i and e confused. Help by saying we are weird, so your child remembers that we is the first part of the word.
- For the double s in dessert: desserts are both sweet and sugary.
- For a word with two 'tricky' parts, like necessary, think Cats Eat Salty Sardines to remember the c and the double s (see 'Make it an acronym' below).

Try breaking down polysyllabic words to make each syllable easier to remember. Even young children may be doing this at school – they might call syllables 'beats'. Help them decipher how many 'beats' or syllables there are in a word by clapping the word together, one clap per syllable.

So, for two-syllable words...

And finally check it.

It's a well-researched memory trick: if you can conjure up a visual image, what you're trying to remember (in this case spellings!) may come more readily.

For example, 'rainbow sounds' can help a child visualise a word with each sound being the next colour in the rainbow sequence – ROYGBIV

e.g. cat shop cheaper pale

Another trick is to visualise the word as part of an image/picture. If your child is learning 'bank' but writing 'banc', help them remember it's a 'kicking K' by saying, "I kicked my legs into the bank". If they're writing 'cat' as 'kat' remind them it's a 'curly c' by saying, "The cat likes to curl up and go to sleep". Encourage your child to invent their own ways of remembering words; if they have thought up the image themselves, it will be a more powerful tool.

To remember double s, really stress and extend the sound: fussssssss.

To remember double z, again stress and extend it: buzzzzzzzzz.

Same for double e: seeeeeeeeem.

To remember ea instead of ee, pronounce it as two separate sounds: cre – a –m.

Sometimes, visualising a difficult word in a different way can suddenly make it stick. Create a phrase from each letter of a word and turn it into an acrostic, which can be easier to remember than the word itself. Try these, or have your child make up their own!

Spelling List

Year 3

This booklet provides the Year 3 and 4 spelling lists for parents and carers.

Your child should also know the spelling list for Year 1 and 2. These have been included to help your child recall these.

Learn; Love; Pray

Top Tips

Frequently, there will be one part of a word that trips up your child each time. Look at the word together and highlight the part that they find particularly tricky. For example:

Night Separate Was Receive Weird

What Two Friend Said Cheap

Or there may be two parts that need attention, for instance;

Accommodate Address Necessary

Once you've done the highlighting together, get them to write out the word again without looking. This time they'll be more focused on getting that tricky bit right, and will be able to remember how it looks.

If one or two parts of a particular word just don't seem to 'sink in' by simply highlighting them, try to think of other ways to help them stick. For example:

- With weird, people often get the i and e confused. Help by saying we are weird, so your child remembers that we is the first part of the word.
- For the double s in dessert: desserts are both sweet and sugary.
- For a word with two 'tricky' parts, like necessary, think Cats Eat Salty Sardines to remember the c and the double s (see 'Make it an acronym' below).

Try breaking down polysyllabic words to make each syllable easier to remember. Even young children may be doing this at school – they might call syllables 'beats'. Help them decipher how many 'beats' or syllables there are in a word by clapping the word together, one clap per syllable.

So, for two-syllable words...

Danger Dan / ger Windmill Wind / mill Option Op / tion

And for three-syllable words...

Relation Re / la / tion Beautiful Beau / ti / ful

Syllable 1	Syllable 2	Syllable 3
Re	la	tion

Another classic technique is known as Look, Cover, Write and Check.

So, they look at the word...

Cover the word...

Write the word...

And finally check it.

It's a well-researched memory trick: if you can conjure up a visual image, what you're trying to remember (in this case spellings!) may come more readily.

For example, 'rainbow sounds' can help a child visualise a word with each sound being the next colour in the rainbow sequence – ROYGBIV

e.g. cat shop cheaper pale
