

Watch out for a phishing email with a Blue Display Message button similar to this:

Other versions of the wording used in this message may also be received: I.E. Display Message, Display Content, ETC

DO NOT press the button, If you do, your web browser will show a web page which might display your email address. If you enter your details in the box provided, you'll be giving your account details away to cyber criminals.

UK universities and schools have reported that it's arriving in their student inboxes, we are seeing this to be the case.

If you receive an email from staff or student the action to take is as follows:

- 1) Delete the message and do not click the Blue Box (Empty the sent items folder and Deleted items folder is also useful)
- 2) Inform the individual that they need to change their password immediately

Please note that the School or any of our staff will never ask you for your Passwords.
